HOW TO GET TO CRETE

Crete is the largest island in Greece and the fifth largest one in the Mediterranean Sea. Here, you can admire the remnants of brilliant civilizations, explore glorious beaches, impressive mountainscapes, fertile valleys, and steep gorges, and become part of the island's rich gastronomic culture. Crete is, after all, a small universe teeming with beauties and treasures that you will probably need a lifetime to uncover!

To read more about the islands' history, please check here.

The easiest way to get to the island of Crete is by direct flight to one of the two International Airports on the island. The two International airports are the "International Airport of Heraklion Nikos Kazantzakis" (HER) in Heraklion and the "International Airport of Chania Ioannis Daskalogiannis" (CHQ) in Chania. The Airport of Heraklion is 7km far from the Heraklion city center, and the Airport of Chania is 14km away from the Chania city center. The distance between Heraklion and Chania is about 150 km which means two hours of driving or approximately three hours if you pick up the bus from Chania to Heraklion.

The ATHENA meeting hosted by HMU will take place in Heraklion, so it is strongly advised to reserve your flights to Heraklion Nikos Kazantzakis Airport (HER). All major international carriers operate with direct flights to Heraklion (after April). However, many low-cost carriers have included Heraklion International Airport as their destination. If you wish to combine your visit with a short vacation, you can select a charter flight.

If a convenient direct flight to Heraklion cannot be found, there is an option to fly via Athens International Airport 'Eleftherios Venizelos'. There are six (starting at 06:55 AM and the last one at 22:55) daily flights operated by the Aegean Airlines from Athens to Heraklion and three daily flights (the first one at 07:30 and the last one at 20.00) used by Sky Express to Heraklion. Note that these times may change over the summer season.

Another alternative is to fly to Athens and then travel to Crete by boat. You can take a bus from Athens International Airport to Piraeus port. You can take the boat and enjoy the Aegean Sea while traveling from Piraeus to Heraklion. The trip lasts about six hours, and the schedules and operators can be found here:

- Piraeus to Heraklion/ Heraklion to Piraeus: www.anek.gr

It is strongly advised to reserve your trip well in advance.

HOW TO GET TO HERAKLION CAMPUS

Once you arrive at the Airport of Heraklion, you can either take a taxi or a bus to take you to the place you want. If you're going to come directly to HMU from the Airport by bus, you can use BUS NUMBER 12*: "AIRPORT – ELMEPA" (you disembark at station 1104 – Mediterranean University). If you are at the city center, you pick up BUS 12 from the Astoria Liberty Square (bus station 10218), and you disembark at bus station 1104 – Mediterranean University. However, we are working to arrange your daily transfer from the Heraklion City center to HMU during the meetings days.

Visiting the city bus services' website at <http://astiko-irakleiou.gr/en/#main>, you can find the exact location of the bus and how many minutes remain until it arrives at your bus stop.

To arrive at HMU, you can take a taxi; the approximate cost from the city center to the Hellenic Mediterranean University is about 10 euros. Use cash since many taxis do not offer a credit card option. Otherwise, please ask the reception of your hotel to call you a taxi with a credit card payment service. Taxis charge more for luggage.

ABOUT HERAKLION City

Heraklion in Greece, the hometown and resting place of Nikos Kazantzakis, is the largest town in Crete. It distinguishes itself for its impressive fortress, the Venetian port, and the fish taverns along the waterfront. Apart from the city, the entire region is also beautiful and unexplored.

The history of Heraklion started in the Minoan times, as is shown by the close ancient town of Knossos, the most developed of all Minoan towns in Crete. The town was found almost intact under ashes, which is why scientists believe that this civilization was destroyed by the volcanic eruption of Santorini. Excavations in Knossos have revealed a flourishing ancient town with an impressive palace and a vibrant cultural life. To read more about Heraklion City, please check it here.
